Dear Sir:

As you can see, Washington has again got me temporarily, however, I have come in on a job which is of mutual concern, and in connection with it I have been trying to get in touch with you. The worst word is that you are out of touch with civilization for the time being, and I am therefore taking this way of learning what chance I have to see you on my next visit here.

Specifically, I plan to be in Washington from 11 August through 11 September, and wonder whether you by any chance intend to be here at any time during this period. If so, I should like very much to see you - officially as well as personally. A reply to the above address, c/o Mr. William F. Friedman, will reach me on my return.

With best wishes and good luck on your present venture,

Cordially yours,

H. P. ROBERTSON
